WAR SECRETS OF THE ADMIRALTY

BOOK RELEASED AFTER 4 MONTHS' DELAY

SIR ALFRED EWING AS GENIUS OF ROOM 40

The dramatic manner in which the news of Sir Roger Casement's plans to stir up trouble in Ireland reached the British Government is described in "40, O.B. or How the War Was Won," released by Hutchinson.

The book was to have been issued four months ago, but was recalled on the eve of publication by the request of the Admiralty, who wished first to read it in order that they might ascertain whether it contained any information which it would not be in the public interest to reveal.

Mr. Hugh Cleland Hoy, the author, was on the secretariat of the Director of Naval Intelligence during the war.

"I have gathered together in this volume," he writes, "recollection and reflections on the events and personalities with which I came into contact through my association with the Intelligence Division of the Admiralty, where I was employed in a position of trust throughout the war."

"It will be understood that, while exercising my memory concerning those vital happenings, I have also been obliged to omit many startling and exciting matters. The Official Secrets Act is far-reaching, and I am also bound by personal loyalty to the Service, to my superiors in that Service, and to the promptings of humanity and the demands of social obligation. So in making this compilation I have had to remember—and also to forget."

Well-Kept Secret.

"40 O.B." is described by Mr. Hoy as one of the best kept secrets of the war. It was a room bearing the innocent-looking number "40" on its door in the quiet wing of the Old Building of the Admiralty.

"The most secret of all war work" was done here in the tracking of enemy movements. Intercepted cryptograms, some of which in their deciphered form thrilled the world, were decoded here. They reached, when the Department was at full working, "the remarkable total of about 2,000 a day."

"Not one of them ever completely defeated the code experts!" Of this mysterious Department even Cabinet Ministers knew next to nothing. "But," Mr. Hoy adds, "those whose work brought them into contact with the hidden activities of this essentially confidential office were of the opinion that '40 O.B.' won the war."

Lifelong Hobby.

Sir Alfred Ewing, the distinguished scientist, who undertook the formation of this Department, had made a lifelong hobby of the solving of cryptics.

"This small man with the enormous head, remarkable eyebrows, and strangely piercing eyes," says Mr. Hoy in a pen-portrait of Sir Alfred, "was more than a match for the creators of the codes employed by the German General Staff."

Yet, "if Ewing was a genius at deciphering codes, there were others [in the Department] who ran him close, and of one of these a high official said he was worth £1,000,000 to our Government. His loss, he added, might even mean the loss of the war."

Mr. Hoy makes the revelation that on the choice of one of two such simple terms as "cats" or "hats," flashed through the ether as the key-word of a signal, depended the tragic fate of Sir Roger Casement. How the British got to know "the facts about Casement's treasonable intentions was," he writes, "one of the many strange stories of the war."

Pressed by the Germans "to get ahead with his plans for a rebellion in Ireland," Sir Roger Casement, Mr. Hoy says, "selected three Irish civilian prisoners at Ruhlben and secured their release. There is no doubt they were intended as emissaries."

"Quite outside my duties at the I.D., some rather fortunate information came my way by chance. One Saturday night in January, 1918, a telephone call from the Foreign Office apprised me of the somewhat sudden release of these prisoners."

"As obviously it was not for nothing that these men had been sent from Ruhlben, it was assumed that their mission had something to do with the state of Ireland and the prospects of a German invasion. An Admiralty car was placed at my disposal and rushed me to all the London termini, but there appeared to be no trace of them."

"However, I found that the authorities at Harwich had failed to detain the men and had allowed them to proceed unchecked to their various destinations. This rather dashed me until I remembered that one man's wife, who was of German birth, was interned at Preston."

"I hurried off to Preston, therefore, on the chance of catching him, and was informed by relatives that he had gone to Manchester—and there I found him."

For a Price.

"He was astonished to see me, but when I tried to draw him out on the subject of his experiences in Germany he became as mute as an oyster. For five solid hours I argued and pleaded with him. At last he said—"

"If the Government will pay me for my story I'll tell everything I know."

"I guarantee that," I answered. "In London he told his story. Knowing as we did nothing about Casement's activities and his green-and-gold army, what he had to tell caused considerable surprise."

However, his narrative was accepted, and the development of the Irish Brigade through the wearing of the prisoners of war from their loyalty by the promise of freedom and good food was quickly grasped.

COLOURFUL SIMPLICITY IN NEW SEASON'S STYLES

ROUND THE SHOPS

[By "EVE."]

The Dolly Vardon Hat Shop.—My weekly visits to the different shops are a pure delight these days as the new season's frocks, suits and hats are more attractive than ever before. This is particularly true as regards my visit to the Dolly Vardon Hat Shop. Where new stocks arrive really the acme of chic, especially the small black tulle-like models with their cute little eye-veils. The "Catalina" hats are definitely "le dernier cri" and are sure to be snapped up within the next few days, so I should advise an early visit to this charming salon in Chater Road. The new two and three-piece suits are also the last word in elegance and the cut, colour and material are allied to make a perfect ensemble.

Gordon's, always abreast with Fashion's trend, are showing this week a large variety of the latest and most attractive footwear. The new Autumn models mainly follow simple lines and darker shades, and in this way, I think, are all the more smart and becoming. This new Oxford is always smart and is usually accompanied by a high slender heel; it fits best into the noon group. The fact that shoe manufacturers have finally come to the realization that women to-day must have shoes that are comfortable as well as modish, will come as welcome news to women in general. The demands of present day living make comfortable shoes an absolute necessity. Women are leading more active lives all the time, are walking more and are being much more sensible about choosing shoes that fit correctly. This season brings many styles made on comfortable lines and not in any sense unattractive because of these desirable features.

Whiteaway's.—The new season's goods are well represented this week in Whiteaway's and the new dresses, suits, hats and accessories are among the most charming I have seen. The new suits, both in knitted wool and of a knitted material, appear in two varieties—the plain and the diagonal weave. Skirts and fashioned so as to maintain the same slimness, through waistline and hip that characterizes the coat and dress silhouettes. Only a slight suggestion of the flares is introduced and where this occurs, it is placed well below the knees. Among the new coats there are models to suit all pockets. Fabrics such as the new crepey woolsens and tweed cloths are quite new. Sleeves generally are kept quite simple just below the elbow and the wrists so that interest will centre above the elbow.

Lane, Crawford's, also, have just received a most beautiful and varied selection of day and evening frocks in which fashion's latest and most colourful notes are accentuated. These are all straight from Paris and are really very lovely. Satin is an important evening fabric this season and there are some interesting crepe versions both in lustrous and dull effects. Some crepe satins have the same rough quality one finds in the heavier crinkly crepes. Laces are also represented, and here, as in the satin family, the dulled effects are the smartest. Laces that resemble net, some velvety design and others of very gossamer shyness are also seen.

MADENING MOMENTS

Another
dawn!

Compared with the Brown-Brown, sailors' merriment on a desert island with a batch of cannibals to appease were a soft thing. After all, what was a cannibal compared with Caroline Gloria when she cried in the night? Nothing, a mere trifle, a bagatelle. And now you see them abandoning the last hope. The "Ovaltine" Rusk is empty. Someone shall pay the penalty for it tomorrow, but after all, tomorrow may never come.

And all the time Caroline Gloria cries. That toothsome, flavoured, scrunchy, golden-brown Rusk is not there. And she never stopped crying for less. She knows and so do they by this time.

MAKING UP TO NEW AUTUMN SHADES

TOUCH OF THE TAR BRUSH EFFECT

Patterns of the new colours to be worn in the autumn and during next winter are already in the beauty parlours, and the specialists are at work with their range of powders, rouges, lipsticks, eye shadows, and mascaras, selecting some, putting aside others.

Navy, blue and black coats and skirts will come back to favour, with fox fur ties. According to a Bond-street specialist, who maintains that some of the colour of the ensemble must always appear in the "make-up," a navy-blue eye-shadow will be correct, combined with a peachy beige powder, a rose-pink rouge, and raspberry-pink lipstick.

With a black coat and skirt the powder must be creamy ivory in tone, in order to get away from any yellow effect in the complexion, and the least touch of a green eye-shadow should be combined with black mascara, brushed lightly on to the eyelashes. Both rouge and lipstick should have a hint of flame colour, as top pale pink would look insipid with black.

What some people might call "a touch of the tar brush" will be definitely aimed at in the smartest of make-up at foot of next column.

THE COCKTAIL HOUR

Cocktail Secret.

If the cocktail shaker is filled nearly to the top with cracked ice and the ingredients, already mixed, poured over the ice, the taste is noticeably better.

Barry Cocktail.

Use small glass and piece of ice, two dashes of Angostura bitters, one half jigger of Gordon's Dry Gin, one jigger of Italian Vermouth "Cinzano," one piece of twisted lemon peel, five drops of Creme de Menthe stir well and strain into small glasses and serve.

Bijou Cocktail.

Three quarters of a glass filled with shaved ice, one third wine glass Green Chartreuse, one third wine glass Italian Vermouth "Cinzano," one third wine glass Gordon's Old Tom gin stir well and after straining into cocktail glass, add cherry or small olive, and serve after squeezing lemon peel on top.

Daisy Gin Cocktail.

Fill pint shaker with cracked ice, add one half wine glass of raspberry syrup or Grenadine, one half wine glass Gordon's Dry gin, one tablespoon of lemon juice, two slices orange, two lumps of sugar, shake well and serve.

The glass used in serving should be sufficiently large to hold a generous cocktail and not be more than three-quarters full.

All cocktail glasses should be chilled before filling and serving.

Coffee Cocktail.

Place three or four lumps of ice in a mixing glass, add one teaspoonful of sugar, one fresh egg, one glass of port wine, one pony glass of Brandy, shake well and strain into punch glass with a little nutmeg on top.

Despedida Cocktail.

Juice of two lemons, two wine glasses of Bacardi, one wine glass of Gordon's dry gin, one half wine glass French Vermouth, one half wine glass of Heering's brandy.

Angel Kiss Cocktail.

Use liqueur glass, one fourth Grenadine, one fourth Creme de Cacao, one fourth milk, one fourth Heering's brandy.

The glass used in serving should be sufficiently large to hold a generous cocktail and not be more than three-quarters full.

All cocktail glasses should be chilled before filling and serving.

SUN-TAN WITHOUT SUNSHINE

To tan or not to tan? This is the question that women are asking the beauty specialists now, when they are stocking up their beauty boxes—the modern trunk or suitcase has a special tray for toilet preparations—and on the whole the answer is in the negative.

For the woman who wants to look as if she had sun-tanned without the trouble involved in the real process one specialist provides a sunburn make-up in three degrees, light, medium and dark. An extra dark sun-tan liquid powder, so dark that it looks nigger brown on the bottle, comes from Berlin, and some of the younger set may like this. It is used by smart German women, with an orange rouge and make-up for white evening frocks next winter, when all thoughts of genuine sunburn must naturally be a water stain applied lightly with a sponge and then washed off with soap and water the next morning, which does not darken the skin permanently. Combined lipstick and faint green eyeshadow.

A Popular Paste.

A paste against sunburn that can be applied before the bath and which will stay on and do its beneficial work right through a morning of sunbathing is likely to be popular when combined with an anti-nose-shine paste. The latter is to be applied very sparingly to the nose with the little finger, and the effect should last from six to eight hours.

For those who want to sun-tan almond oil is put up in little boxes as that can easily be carried in a bench bag, and this should be put on before the bath.

Women with delicate skins often burn them in spite of precautions, and sound advice to them is to take with them the first strength of a special skinfood—usually used for children—and very young girls—and to apply it with cotton-wool soaked in a lotion destined to replace soap and water on burned skins.

Podicure Points.

Legs and feet are to be so important on Riviera beaches that some declares that they will eclipse faces! In some, salons toe-nails are now cut with the finest of little razors and the edges smoothed to prevent the destruction of fine-gauge silk stockings.

Wax baths are given to legs to reduce them and to remove even the suspicion of little hairs. The best lacquer nail varnish applied to toe-nails is impervious to water for at least a fortnight, and blood-red is still a popular colour, while with a powder of the same golden-brown tone, a dusky "Carolina" effect will be arrived at. Rouge and lipstick with this make-up should not be orange, but a dark scarlet, and diamonds are the most effective jewellery to wear against this exotic tone of skin.

HAPPY DAYS FOR BABY

How does baby fit into your family circle? Do you have happy days and peaceful nights or are you one of the people who "never had a night's rest since baby came," and now feel nervy and worn out so that everything is on top of you?

Mistake Some Mothers Make.

So much depends on management. Baby's life is largely what you make it, and you can have a cheerful, contented infant or a restless, crying one.

I met a mother the other day who said she often let her three months' old baby miss a feed as she was told that "sleep is as good as a feed."

This is absolutely untrue, and irregular feeding must lead to digestive trouble, nervousness, and general ill-health in time: it cannot do anything else.

Very Human Little Mortals.

Regularity must be the keynote; feeding by the clock, waking baby if necessary, and keeping to a definite daily routine.

In this way baby will have his right place in the family circle as part of that circle, not as the separate figure around which the circle revolves.

Judging from the letters I receive, many mothers think that every time baby wakes between his feeds he is hungry or in need of amusement. They do not take into account that babies are very human little mortals, and if they find making themselves heard brings extra attention they soon learn to take away with them.

LONDON FASHIONS

THE AUTUMN OUTLINE

There is no radical change in the outline of autumn clothes. They remain simple and wearable, but important changes in details of cut, and new materials are in use.

The neckline by day on coats and gowns has become almost everywhere higher and closer to the throat by means of guimpes, scarves, small capes which fasten at the back, and stiffened collars. On the other hand there are collars which can be made high or low as the wearer prefers.

The new dropped-shoulder line leaves clear the line of the shoulder and permits fullness on the upper arm without giving added width. The wide shoulder line is less noticeable than it was. Many evening dresses still show the covered shoulder line, and informal dinner frocks have small puff sleeves cut in one with the top of the bodice. A deep square décolletage at the back on some of the more formal gowns is new. While variations are beginning to appear in the placing of the waistline, the bust remains moulded and the hips slim.

For daytime the waistline at the normal place is most favoured, since the higher line suits only more youthful figures. A compromise is often achieved by a belt which widens to a higher waistline in front, while retaining the natural line at the back. In the evening the high waistline is marked by swathes and twists of material often contrasting in colour with the gown, or by shaped beaded belts. It remains to be seen whether the waistline placed low on the hips, which is inspired by the Renaissance period, will be generally approved.

Skirts for the daytime are straight and narrow and belted at a normal waistline; they fit closely to the hips and are of practical length. There is a tendency to elaborate the evening skirt; fullness in pleats or gathers appears at back and front. On some of the new models knee-length tunics fall from a high waistline.

Full-length day coats retain the fitted line, but there are newer three-quarter coats for sports wear, in fur or cloth, to be worn with woollen dresses of matching or contrasting colours. For the evening also this is the newest length, and capes are showing signs of a revival. The small barrel muff of fur gives a finishing touch to the somewhat Victorian picture afforded by the fur capelet over a closely moulded and buttoned coat.

BETTER MILK FOR BABIES

Baby so easily digests

LACTOGEN

Baby is happy and healthy on Lactogen—the dried milk food—because she gets all the nourishment she needs quickly and easily.

Lactogen is as easily digested as breast milk. The special way in which Lactogen is prepared ensures a fine flaky curd, and breaks down the fat of the milk into very tiny globules which are quickly and easily digested by even the most delicate infant.

Lactogen is pure, fresh, full-cream milk, with extra cream and natural milk sugar added, made germ-free and dried by Lactogen processes which also preserve unchanged the valuable mineral and vitamin content of the fresh milk. Lactogen is thus made, in all important respects, exactly like breast milk.

Even the most delicate baby can take Lactogen as her sole food from birth. And as a supplementary, or alternate feed, Lactogen has no equal. Unlike raw milk, Lactogen never varies in quality, or constitution, whenever you buy.

"Put Baby on Lactogen," Doctors and Nurses all over the world are now telling Mothers.

learn to wield their power and have us on toast, as the saying goes.

No father likes to come home to a squealing baby, spoilt supper and tired wife, so mothercraft and housecraft must each have its own place.

The joys of successful parenthood can only be experienced by working along these lines. A single-handed mother has her hands full, I know, particularly if baby has brothers and sisters, but she must not be too house proud, lest she lose her own repose.

A sense of restfulness is infectious and it may be necessary sometimes to turn a blind eye to a piece of tidying or polishing so that she herself can have that rest after lunch that helps her to continue natural feeding and to be ready to take an intelligent interest in her husband's doings when he comes home, or to read a beloved toy belonging to the older child. A mother is expected to do a multitude of things.

Don't Forget "Mothering Time." Even regular routine will not make baby always seen and not heard. He needs definite playtime and nursing, even when very young—"mothering time" we call it, and this time for amusement and kicking exercise must be extended as baby gets older.

After the first three months he should be promoted to a kirk on the firm floor before the three day feeds. The playpen with a folding floor is invaluable for this, as it prevents any risk of draught, and baby can kick and roll and discover his own ten fingers and toes, exercising himself and developing as he should.

A Peaceful Home Atmosphere.

He soon learns what is expected of him, and is ready to settle down after his feed, provided, of course, his digestion is respected and he is given suitable food.

In these difficult days of financial strain and uncertain employment a peaceful home atmosphere means much.

A happy baby and a healthy mother go a long way towards providing it.

Baby's Future lies in your hands

HOW do you know that baby is having the kind of food which will build a strong, sure foundation of health?

HOW can you be sure that adequate nourishment is provided for normal bone-development and active teeth formation?

ONLY by insisting that his diet shall contain Vitamin D in such quantity as will meet with normal growing requirements.

ROZA PEREIRA WINS

MEN'S HARBOUR RACE
DECIDED

CAMPBELL SECOND AND KWOK CHAN HUNG THIRD

Conditions were far from ideal yesterday when the open Harbour Race was held. Thirty one competitors faced the starter and all finished in good time.

As generally anticipated, L. Roza Pereira, the star swimmer of the V.R.C. won the event. Pte. Campbell, who won the Army Harbour Race, finished second, about eighty yards behind the winner and a further fifty yards behind came Kwok Chan Hung, the winner of the South China Harbour race. C. J. Cooke, the veteran swimmer, was fourth.

Pereira led from start to finish and swam in an almost dead straight line, although the current carried him slightly more towards the East than he had probably intended to go. However, he soon realized the position and before half way, it was evident that he would win. Campbell followed close to him at first, but gradually slipped back and from being within a few feet of him at first, was a matter of some fifty yards behind him when half way was reached.

Veteran's Fine Effort.

Kwok Chan Hung, who finished third, took a more easterly course than Pereira and Campbell and it was due to the wonderful spurt he put on in the last two hundred yards of the race when he changed from the breast stroke to the crawl that he accounted for Cooke. The veteran swimmer chose a westerly course and swam all by himself. It looked as though he was heading for West Point but he swung round when about two hundred yards off the Kowloon Wall and made a straight line for the V.R.C. His choice of course enabled him to finish so well up among the competitors.

At the conclusion of the race, a large gathering assembled at the V.R.C. to witness the prize distribution, when the prizes won during the recent Annual Sports and at the Harbour races were given away by Mrs. W. T. Southern, wife of His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, who had watched the race from the motor launch Britannia.

H.E.'s Congratulations.

Mr. W. Logan, Chairman of the Club, in calling upon Mrs. Southern to present the prizes, congratulated Mr. Cooke on his gallant effort that afternoon. After the prizes had been distributed and three hearty cheers had been given for Mrs. Southern, the Hon. Mr. Southern, addressing the gathering, congratulated the V.R.C. on bringing a very successful year's swimming to a close. "Swimming seems to be becoming very popular in Hong Kong and I think this year we must consider to be Roza Pereira's year. I hope next year his competitors will see that he does not carry off all the prizes, and although I would never wish him to swim any slower than he does now, I hope someone will turn up next year who will swim a bit faster."

Speaking of the Harbour races, His Excellency said: "The Harbour race this year was an absolutely cosmopolitan race. Several nationalities in Hong Kong were represented and the prizes were distributed between three nationalities, which all goes for good feeling as well as good swimming." Mr. Southern then congratulated C. J. Cooke on his good showing yesterday afternoon and congratulated Messrs. Logan and Ross for seeing so successful a season through.

appendix—or the place where it used to be—may have done him a good turn by giving him plenty of forced leisure for reading. McInness bowled well enough and Goodwin showed a welcome return to form, coming very fast off the matting. His figures would have been better if he had gone off about three overs earlier. Burnett it seems had no spikes and could not get a foothold. Now that there are three matting wickets in use in the First League, Pokfulam, King's Park (Navy) and Sookunpoo (Army), and it might be as well to note that rubber soles are all right perhaps for batting and fielding, but not for bowling. Brads are hopeless as they at once tangle you up in the matting, but studs, about a quarter of an inch square and not very deep, will give a bowler the grip he wants.

Unequal Batting.

To resume:—the K.C.C. batting was none too good. Gosnold bowled very well at the start. Teddy Fincher dropped an off break from him on to his off stump. Mackenzie batted nicely for thirty-nine, and though as usual he had most of his runs on the leg side, he had two very pretty shots on the off, a square cut, and a drive. Mr. Extras was third top scorer with thirty-six, and it looks as if someone will have to get a basket or something.

Club Games.

The Civil Service played a Club game, in which the most interesting feature was the return to the fold of H. G. Wallington, who has for years been involved in the Association Heresy. The last season in which he played cricket the Civil Service won the Shield, and his bright innings about number seven had a lot to do with it. Far be it from me to suggest that the Civil Service will win the Shield this year, but I honestly believe they will dodge the Wooden Spoon. A new-comer, P. D. Crawley, bowled well after rather a long absence from the game and it is just possible that more may be heard of him later. The C.S. could have done very well with A. E. Perry, if, as I am told, he is of the K.C. Railway. He has however thrown in his lot with the K.C.C. or so I am told. I hear he has played excellent cricket at home.

The H.K.C.C.

The Club game was rather scrappy and definitely of rather a low standard. Hayward and Mitchell unpinned, and A. K. Mackenzie probably played the best knock of the day. Lawson had another bad match, but in spite of the fact that he has made three ducks running I am convinced from what I have seen of him that he has the makings of a bat in him. Divett, Whippes and Duncan got runs but apart from Beck and Duckitt the attack was not strong. Marton is a bat who might go far if he plays regularly.

Sunday's Games.

The Navy went out to Pokfulam on Sunday afternoon and played a rather weakened University team which lacked Rodrigues, Gosnold and Dy. Ride. The University batted first but Crossfell, Holland and Villiers skittled them out for sixty-six. Holland had five for nineteen and so proved my contention that he is fair death-or-rabbits, if I may so phrase it. It will be interesting to see how he gets on against our best bats. Surgeon Lieut. Comdr. Crossfell is a distinct find for the Navy. I did not see him bowl but he batted very well for thirty-five, while Mason with thirty-seven, made the runs at last that everyone has been expecting. It looks to me as if he wanted a bit more nets, a bit more coaching and a bit more concentration. The Navy won as they pleased.

The Match of Matches.

As regards to-morrow's games the match upon which all eyes will be metaphorically at least, if not actually, fixed is the game between K.C.C. and I.R.C. on the Kowloon ground. No doubt a draw is the most likely result but as both sides' batting has recently been patchy the game might go either way. I am not prophesying myself! But if the Indians get beaten it will I think most seriously jeopardize their chance of winning the Shield this year.

Craigengower have a blank day unless they are playing the University on a recently arranged fixture. The Navy and Club are busy with trials of their own people, while C.S.C.C. visit the somewhat mysterious Army side at Sookunpoo. It will be interesting to see what side they put out to-morrow, as Mason is back in the Colony and it is time they got down to business.

Sunday.

On Sunday the University are at home to the Volunteers in a half day match, and they will have to turn out their best side to hold the visitors.

BANISH THE COUGH

TAKE PEPS AND OBTAIN
FREEDOM FROM CHEST AND LUNG TROUBLES.

The common dry cough of our climate is set up by throat weakness and dust irritation. A chronic cough accompanied by huskiness, pain and tightness of chest, is more serious, for it warns of bronchitis or inflammation in the breathing tubes. A cough accompanied by choking spasms and gasping for breath, indicates bronchial asthma.

Peps are the only rational and direct treatment for all such coughs. When dissolved in the mouth, Peps breathable tablets give off valuable medicinal fumes which are both healing and germicidal. The Peps fumes are breathed through the throat into the deepest recesses of the lungs. Thus in a safe, direct and most effective way, Peps relieve congestion in the breathing tubes and loosen stringy phlegm so that it is easily expelled. Peps soothe the throat and heal the delicate membranes and tissues made raw and inflamed by constant coughing. At the same time, Peps strengthen the chest and lungs and afford valuable protection against infection from other sufferers.

One cannot over-estimate the importance of taking Peps regularly. For coughs, colds, chills, sore throat, laryngitis, bronchitis, night or early morning cough, bronchial asthma, catarrh, etc., Peps are the genuine world-famed remedy. Sold in handy sealed bottles of medicine dealers and dispensaries everywhere. Agents:—Messrs. Gilman & Co., Ltd., Des Vaux Road, Hong Kong.

Typewriters

In 1926 the Estimates Committee went into the question of the supply of British Typewriters for the Public Service. Your Committee have pursued this inquiry and are gratified to learn that only British Typewriters are now purchased for general use; that the supply has been fully equal to the demand, and that both in price and quality they are fully equal to the imported article.

THE IMPERIAL MODEL 50 TYPEWRITER was adopted by H.M. Government after exhaustive tests.

Over 2400 Imperial Typewriters have now been supplied. This is convincing justification of our claim that a British Typewriter can handle any class of work as well as, or better than any foreign made typewriter.

MAIL NEWS FROM CHINA

ATTACK ON TSITSIHARTO BE LAUNCHED IN NEAR FUTURE

Peiping, Oct. 14.—Contact between the Heilungkiang troops under General Ma Chan Shan and the National Salvation Army under General Su Ping Wen having been established, the large-scale enveloping movement on Tsitsihar, provincial capital of Heilungkiang, has begun. A general attack will be launched in the near future.

According to a radio message from General Su Ping Wen, the Japanese under the protection of their airplanes, made four assaults on the units under General Chang Tien Kiu, Vice-Commander-in-Chief of the National Salvation Army, but were each time repulsed by our troops. Fighting was still raging up to the night of the 11th.

General Li Hai Ching's force of 2,000 men, after attacking the rear of the Japanese at Angangchi, have occupied all strategic points on the eastern bank of the Nen River and have completely disrupted communications between Tsitsihar and Angangchi.—Kuo Min.

Nanchang, Oct. 14.—Hengfeng district, eastern Kiangsi, which has been in the hands of the "Reds" for the past two years, was recaptured by the 3th Division under General Chou Hui Yuan on the 5th, according to a delayed message.

General Chou has telegraphed to the Kiangsi Provincial Government for the immediate appointment of a district magistrate so that rehabilitation measures may be started in that city.—Kuo Min.

Four trips will be made daily between the two terminals.—Kuo Min.

TOO MUCH RICE IN KIANGSUACUTE SITUATION OF FARMERS

Shanghai, Oct. 15.—In view of the present acute situation among the farmers as a result of the overabundance of rice in Kiangsu province and the abnormally low market prices, a number of prominent businessmen in Shanghai has organized a Food Committee to study measures for relief of the present situation. The committee includes, among others, Messrs. Wang Hsiao Lai of the Chamber of Commerce, Chang Kie Nguai of the Bank of China, Chin Jen Ching, O. S. Liu and Yu Kueh Sheng.

A study of the question by this committee shows that the present state of affairs is not due to overproduction of the cereal, but to stagnation in the money market, impediments to communications and transportation, and multifarious taxes.

The committee has therefore decided to petition the Government for the remission of taxes on staples, reduction of railway transportation rates, and resumption of the granary system. At the same time, efforts will be directed to discouraging the importation of foreign food supplies. Steps are to be taken to dispose of larger quantities of the staple to Kwangtung, Fukien, and other southern (Continued at foot of next column.)

DIRECT SINO-JAP.
NEGOTIATIONSDENIED BY GENERAL
CHIANG KAI SHEK

Hankow, Oct. 14.—Japanese Press reports alleging that General Chiang Kai Shek is shortly despatching Mr. Tai Chi Tao, President of the Examination Yuan, to Japan to open direct negotiations regarding the present Sino-Japanese controversy are categorically denied by General Chiang.

Branding the reports, which appeared in a recent issue of the Tokyo Nichi Nichi and Osaka Mainichi, as ridiculous, General Chiang Kai Shek pointed out that the Japanese have recently fabricated other rumours imputing to him various fantastic ideas. The Japanese have even alleged that he is advocating the abandonment of Manchuria. These reports are fabricated for obvious purposes and are entirely without foundation, General Chiang declares.—Kuo Min.

CANTON ELECTRIC
WORKSPETITION AGAINST GOV.
SEIZURE

Nanking, Oct. 14.—In conformity with a resolution adopted at its 4th annual meeting on Wednesday, a delegation representing the Association of Chinese Public Utility Corporations called on various high government organs yesterday to petition for the return to private control of the Canton Electric Works which has been seized by the Canton Municipal Authorities.

The organs, to which petitions were submitted were the Central Party Headquarters, the National Government, the Executive and Legislative Yuan, the National Reconstruction Commission, and the Ministry of Industry. It is understood that all of them agreed to exercise their influence in the matter.

The petition of the delegation is based upon the regulations governing private enterprises promulgated by the National Government, which stipulate that public utilities operated by private companies may not be taken over by the Government within thirty years of their establishment. These regulations were confirmed in 1929 by a mandate of the National Government.—Kuo Min.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC
DEVELOPMENTOF YANGTZE
RIVER

Nanking, Oct. 15.—For the hydro-electric development of the Yangtze River, a party of engineers, representing the National Reconstruction Commission and the Yangtze River Conservancy Board, will leave Hankow on the 25th for an inspection and survey of the river.

The party is to be made up of five experts, comprising Mr. Yui Chen, Head of the Electrical Department of the National Reconstruction Commission; Mr. Tao Jui Chih, Conservancy Engineer of the Commission; Mr. Sung Hsi Shung, Head of the Engineering Division of the Yangtze River Conservancy Board; and two other engineers attached to the Board.

It is learnt that the party will devote their investigations to the Upper Yangtze above Hankow. The strength of the current there will be gauged so as to find the most suitable site for the establishment of a hydro-electric power station.—Kuo Min.

provinces and to seek assistance of local bankers in extending credits to facilitate such inter-provincial transactions. It is understood that the Committee favours the opening of emergency granaries at Changshu, Soochow, Wusih, Wutain, Kiangsu and Hangchow, the rice-producing districts of Kiangsu. The provincial and district authorities will be approached in this matter.—Kuo Min.

PROPOSED STEEL AND IRON WORKSCANCELLATION OF CONTRACT DENIED

Nanking, Oct. 14.—Current reports of the cancellation of the proposed Sino-German contract for the establishment of the Government steel and iron works are denied by Mr. Chen Kung Po, Minister of Industry. The contract, he declares, will probably be signed in another month.

Minister Chen said that some changes are contemplated in the original plans relating to the issue of an $80 million loan. Treasury Notes will be issued to the amount of $40 millions which will bear interest at 7 per cent. per annum and redemption of which will commence in the third year and will be completed in seven years.

Minister Chen is leaving shortly for Mannheim (Saddle Mountain) for an inspection of the new works.—Kuo Min.

OUR SPORTS

A GOOD footballer never loses sight of the ball except when he has himself kicked it. Let me explain.

Before the kick, he must watch the ball intently, to judge its pace and angle. Meanwhile he decides at what spot he will kick the ball, and goes on watching it until the kick is delivered.

Now some players seem to feel that unless they see the entire course of a ball from the instant it leaves the foot, it cannot possibly go where they wish.

Of course, it doesn't really matter if they do look up after the kick. The trouble is that they find it fatally easy to look up before. Up goes the head, the position of the body is changed, and a poor kick results.

The careful player, in order to make certain that he is watching the ball as he delivers his kick, keeps his eye on the spot half a second longer than is strictly necessary. For that half second he loses sight of the ball.

A great number of bad shots at goal are due to this desire never to lose sight of the ball. Yet to the casual observer the good golfer appears far more interested in what lies beneath the ball than in the ball itself.

Having sent it on its way, he pauses to inspect the turf before looking up for the ball. It seldom needs much looking for. Since he was perfectly steady when making the shot, the ball has gone just where he intended.

The only part of a kick that need concern a footballer is the first inch. If the ball is properly kicked and starts straight, it will finish straight.

A SMALL girl of three years suddenly burst out crying at the dinner table. "Why, Ethel," said her mother, "what is the matter?" "Oh," whined Ethel, "my teeth stepped on my tongue."

ARE YOU BRAVE?

No one can really claim to be brave until they have had a trial. Here is a simple little test—it is perfectly harmless:
Tuck your right thumb into your hand, then close the fingers round it. Next, carry your hand up to the right armpit so that the wrist is bent inwards. Now release the thumb and then put it back into your hand.

ECHOES OF OTTAWA CONFERENCE; THE TAX ON FOREIGN CARS

Echoes of the Ottawa Conference were heard at the Legislative Council Meeting yesterday, when several matters, which were the direct result of the Conference, were dealt with.

Several new Bills passed their first reading, including the much-discussed "Divorce Bill."

Among the new Bills introduced was one "to secure an increased trade between the Colony and other parts of the British Empire."

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock.

Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton.

Hon. Mr. R. H. Kewell, C.M.G., LL.D.

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga.

Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau.

Mr. R. A. C. North (Clerk of Council).

Preferential Rate for Empire Brandy

The Colonial Treasurer: The resolution I am about to move is one of the results of the Ottawa Conference. Empire Brandy will now be admitted at a preferential rate of duty of 33 per gallon less than foreign brandy. The remaining items are as before.

I now move the following resolution:

Resolved pursuant to section 39 of the Liquor Ordinance, 1931, Ordinance No. 66 of 1931, that the Table to the Liquor Duties Resolution of the 30th June 1932 (published by Notification No. 417 of the Gazette of the 30th June, 1932) be amended and that on and after the coming into operation of this Resolution Part I. of the Table published in the said notification be rescinded and the following Part substituted:

Part I.

European Type Liquor.

	Gallon-Per
On all liquors, and on all champagnes and other sparkling wines	$10.00
On all brandy consigned from and grown or produced in the British Empire	3.00
On all other brandy and on gin, whisky, and other spirituous liquors	6.00
On all port, sherry and madeira	4.00
On all other still wines	3.00
On beer, porter, cider, perry and stout	0.60
On all intoxicating liquors above the strength of 18 degrees under proof, for every degree above such strength in addition to the appropriate duty as above	0.07

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the motion was carried.

Tax on Foreign Cars.

The Attorney-General moved the first reading of "A Bill to secure and increase trade between the Colony and other parts of the British Empire," and said: "This is also the result of the agreements of the Ottawa Conference and it is proposed to charge a duty equal to 20 per cent. of the c.i.f. value of cars in the Colony, not on arrival but on registration, so as not to interfere with the normal trade of the Colony. From the net value there is deducted the cost of tyres and also spare wheels and other spare parts."

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the motion was carried.

The Attorney-General moved "A Bill to amend the Supreme Court (Admiralty Procedure) Ordinance, 1896." He said: When the amendments affected by this Bill are made the requirements for a preliminary act the Bill will be practically the same in the Colony as in the United Kingdom.

Seconded by the Colonial Secretary, the motion was carried.

The Attorney-General moved "A Bill to amend the Marriage Ordinance, 1875." He said: The amendments affected by this Bill are indicated in the memorandum of objects and reasons. It is necessary to pass the Bill before introducing the Divorce Bill as the question of Chinese customary marriages has to be safeguarded.

Seconded by the Colonial Secretary, the motion was carried.

The Attorney-General moved the first reading of "A Bill to confer on the Supreme Court Jurisdiction in Divorce and Matrimonial causes." He said:

Sir, I rise to move the first reading of a Bill to confer on the Supreme Court Jurisdiction in Divorce and Matrimonial Causes. In June, 1931, Lord Passfield drew the attention of the Court of the Colony to the fact that its Courts had no powers to grant divorce and stated that it was an anomaly which might cause serious hardship in individual cases. In January, 1932, his successor as Secretary of State, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister again drew attention to the subject.

Lagging Behind Shanghai and Straits.

In this respect the Colony has lagged behind Shanghai, the Straits Settlements and other British Jurisdiction. Inasmuch as jurisdiction with regard to divorce in general depends, according to English law, upon the domicile of the married persons, that is to say the domicile of the husband, peccant husbands domiciled in Hong Kong have found in their domicile an Atlatia which seems as hard to defend as the Atlatia which formerly obtained for debtors in Whitefriars.

The Bill follows closely the precedent of Straits Settlements Ordinance No. 123. The differences are indicated in the Table of Correspondence. They are differences which have been carefully considered and make, it is hoped, the Bill an improvement on the model. I should point out that it is expected that after this Bill is approved by His Majesty and brought into operation by Proclamation next year, it will be implemented, as the Straits Settlements Ordinance has been implemented, by an Order in Council under the Indian and Colonial Divorce Jurisdiction Act, 1926, which will enable the Supreme Court in Hong Kong to exercise a similar jurisdiction in cases in which the parties are British subjects domiciled in England or Scotland. I now formally move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill passed the first reading.

Final Stages.

The following Bills passed through their final stages yesterday:

"A Bill to Amend the Waterworks Ordinance, 1909."

"A Bill to Amend and Consolidate the Law Relating to Dangerous Drugs."

Sir,—In connection with the appeal for the annual picnic to the inmates of the Blind Home which you so kindly published on the 14th I wish to say that I have received the sum of $100, in donations, and the offers of eight cars. Such a generous response is most gratifying but as there are to be some 60 blind girls, more donations and cars are still needed. HELENA MAY CONCERT

SUCCESSFUL OPENING OF SEASON.

A most enjoyable afternoon was spent at the Helena May Institute yesterday afternoon, when the first concert of the season took place. A large crowd was present, many of which were Chinese.

There were seven most interesting items, the programme opening with Miss Amelia Lee at the piano; she played Toccata and Fugue in D Minor by Bach.

Mr. Li Chor Chi, the well-known tenor, was excellent in his songs, "Pensée d'Antoine" by Massenet and "Printemps Nouveau" by Vidal; in fact he was so popular that the audience forced him to give an encore.

Mr. Ho On Tong, violinist, played the 1st movement of Beethoven, a request number. One of the most enjoyable items was a toe dance by the Misses Stella and Helen Ho, who were also encored.

There will be another concert on Thursday, November 3, at 5.30 p.m.

votes were approved without question.

The Colonial Secretary: The first two items on the agenda before you are items considered in the previous meeting of the Finance Committee and adjourned. I now bring them up again. They have been circulated to members with a very full minute explaining the position and the facts required that the Government should put them before you again.

Hon. Mr. Shenton: As regard the dump, it is intended to have incinerators on the dumps.

The Colonial Secretary: The dump is uninhabited and is on a small bay on the Lyemun side of the Lyemun Pass.

Sir Henry Pollock: Would it be part of Saiwan Bay?

The Colonial Secretary: It is on the north side of Junk Bay.

Hon. Mr. Shenton: The dump round the female gaol would be most unfortunate.

The Colonial Secretary: We have agreed that.

Hon. Mr. Bell: How long is it expected that we will be able to dump the refuse on this reclaimed.

The Colonial Secretary: Until it is full or reasonably full.

Over a Number of Years.

Hon. Mr. Bell: We are asked to provide $10,000 and we hope it will be for a number of years.

The Colonial Secretary: Surely there is plenty of room for a number of years.

Hon. Mr. Shenton: The refuse will not be washed back and forth in the Harbour?

The Colonial Secretary: If the refuse is washed backwards and forwards in the Harbour we shall protect it.

With regard to an item of $6,000 for Chatham Road extensions, Sir Henry Pollock asked: I should like to ask whether this contract was a lump-sum contract and, if so, why we have to pay extra because there is more rock.

Hon. Mr. Henderson: The contract is similar to practically all P.W.D. contracts which are priced at unit price and not in a lump-sum.

Sir Henry Pollock: Rock is separately priced?

Hon. Mr. Henderson: So much per cubic yard.

Sir Henry Pollock: I suppose payment will finish with the Chatham Road extension?

Hon. Mr. Henderson: Yes, and there is $5,000 voted for next year.

BANKRUPTCY CASE

WITNESS REFUSES TO DIVULGE NAME

REMOVAL OF STOCK

Before the Chief Justice, Sir Joseph Kemp, sitting in Bankruptcy Court yesterday, application was made on the part of the Official Receiver for an order that the Ying Fat Loong firm, of 34, Wing On Street, "be restrained and prohibited from selling, parting with the possession of or otherwise disposing of any of the goods now on their premises, alleged to have been purchased from the debtor firm (Tai Wah and Co.) for the sum of $18,127.67 until the validity of the alleged sale be determined by the Court."

In the matter of Bankruptcy, the petitioning creditors are Messrs. Bradley and Co. and Mr. Ho Leung, compradore of Messrs. Jardine Matheson and Co., who allege that Tai Wah and Co. committed the following act, namely: that on the 9th instant, between 4 a.m. and 5.30 a.m., nearly the whole of the stock of the Tai Wah and Co. firm was fraudulently transferred to Ying Fat Loong, of 34, Wing On Street; and that on Friday, 7th inst., repayment was made of certain deposits to depositors in the Tai Wah and Co. firm which would be void if the said Tai Wah and Co. were adjudged bankrupt.

Mr. F. X. D'Almada, senr., appeared for the Ying Fat Loong firm, and Mr. D. B. Evans for the debtor firm.

The case was opened on Monday in Chambers and was yesterday transferred to the open Court.

Refuses to Give Name.

The first witness called was Li Wan, a salesman in the Tai Wah firm, who stated that on Wednesday evening, between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m., he received a telephone message at the shop, sent by a friend, whose name he did not propose disclosing. In consequence of the message he went to see his friend.

In that case you will have to give the name if pressed.—Witness I will not even if I am pressed.

In that case you will have to go to goal.—Well, I would rather go to goal. I do not want to give it.

What reason have you got for not wanting to give it?—Because he is a friend of mine. He asked me to do something which I refused to do, so it is no good disclosing his name as I refused to take the advice he gave.

You are afraid he might get into trouble?—That is one reason. I was asked to do something against my wishes.

It may be necessary to ask you the name. If it is, you will have to answer. Failure to do so will probably mean committal.—You cannot leave it, my Lord.

Witness went on to say the friend stated he knew the compradores and a certain other man and that he (the witness) was to give certain evidence.

Mr. Evans:—I am afraid I will have to press for the name, my Lord.

Witness: I was told that if I gave the evidence I would be given several hundred dollars.

Offer Refused.

Witness, answering his Lordship, said he refused to take the advice concerning the evidence and left the place in anger. The conversation opened at the friend's house and continued in a restaurant where he was taken to a small room. In the next room were some other people with whom his friend went to speak. The friend returned later and told him that if he was afraid of losing his job by giving the evidence he (the friend) would give him another job. He refused the offer.

His Lordship, addressing witness, said his evidence had been useless and his attitude in the box had in no way helped the Tai Wah firm.

Ser. Hemsley, stated that on the 9th inst., while at the Central Police Station, he was instructed to accompany Mr. Ho Leung, to Wing On Street to prevent a breach of the peace. They went to No. 35 and found the premises empty.

Mr. Ho Leung enquired where the goods had been taken and was informed to the shop opposite No. 34 at about 4 a.m. The shop had only recently been occupied and rolls of cloth were stacked up and down the centre of the shop.

Evidence in corroboration was given by a Chinese detective.

Order Made.

After hearing the evidence of Chin Yik Kuen, managing partner of the Ying Fat Loong firm, his Lordship stated that he thought there was enough evidence to justify

CHARITY BAZAAR AND FETE

MRS. SOUTHERN PERFORMS OPENING CEREMONY

PRECIOUS BLOOD CONVENT

A bazaar and fete the object of which is to raise funds for the Children's Hospital and Orphanage and other charitable work under the auspices of the Precious Blood Convent opened yesterday at the Convent Building, Yuen Chow Street, Shumshuipo, when Mrs. W. T. Southern performed the opening ceremony.

Great response has been received from the generous public to the disposal of the souvenir tickets which entitle holders to exchange for useful articles on the bazaar days. Also, donations of goods or commodities and subscriptions in the form of cheques have been liberally sent by various firms, companies, and wealthy families.

In view of the great expenses required to carry on the hospital and orphanage, the Committee earnestly appeal to all communities to come forward to help the little ones.

The bazaar will continue to-morrow and Sunday.

SERVICE AQUATICS AT Y.M.C.A.

ARGYLLS' EASY VICTORY OVER LINCOLNS

SOME KEEN CONTESTS

A pleasant afternoon was spent at the Y.M.C.A. Swimming Bath yesterday when inter-regimental aquatic sports were held between the Argyll & Sutherland Highlanders and the Lincolnshire Regiment. So great was the excitement at the meeting that our representative could hear the cheering and shouting from Chatham Road!

The Argylls (as was expected) won easily by seventeen points. Their opponents, although they put up a fine show, have not had the same facilities for swimming as there are in Hong Kong.

The 100 yards breast stroke was a trying race. Cpl. Shearer of the Argylls won against Pte. Steele (Lincolns) who was a close second, followed by L/Cpl. Jackson (A. & S.H.). This old style of racing was good to watch and few have seen a more hard-fought race than that witnessed yesterday.

In the 100 yards relay a team was made up of four, each man swimming 25 yards. The Argylls got away early at the start, and maintained this lead to the end. The diving was also an interesting event Sgt. Parkinson (Lincolns) showing a very high standard of efficiency, but Orr was just a little bit better. The latter won by the narrow margin of half a point. It may be recalled that Sgt. Parkinson held the military diving championship in Shanghai.

Results.

A full list of results was as follows:—25 yards Dash:—1, Pte. McNeill (A. & S.H.); 2, Lt. Rosier (Lincolns); 3, Pte. Kildae (A. & S.H.).

100 Yards Free Style:—1, Pte. Jamieson (A. & S.H.); 2, Pte. Kildae (A. & S.H.); 3, L/Cpl. Turnbull (Lincolns).

100 Yards Back:—1, L/Cpl. Jackson (A. & S.H.); 2, L/Cpl. Maltby (Lincolns); 3, Pte. Lee (A. & S.H.).

100 Yards Breast:—1, Cpl. Shearer (A. & S.H.); 2, Pte. Steele (Lincolns); 3, L/Cpl. Jackson (A. & S.H.).

100 Yards Relay:—1, Argyll & Sutherland Highlanders; 2, Lincolnshire Regiment.

Diving:—1, Edman, Orr (A. & S.H.); 2, Sgt. Parkinson (Lincolns); 3, Pte. Hutchinson (A. & S.H.).

Relay:—1, Argyll & Sutherland Highlanders; 2, Lincoln Regt. (A. & S.H.).

the order.

Mr. D'Almada:—I understood the evidence was to show the bona fides of the transaction.

His Lordship ordered that the Official Receiver, Mr. E. E. Agassiz, be appointed receiver of the business of the Ying Fat Loong firm, and that he be empowered to employ a person or persons to his satisfaction to remain on the premises of the Ying Fat Loong firm in order to watch the business and to receive all receipts. The monies would be held by the Receiver on behalf of the persons entitled

TRAFALGAR DAY

It was perhaps a coincidence that a petition signed in England by some three hundred persons eminent in the Church, the arts, science and Labour politics, was presented to the Prime Minister three days before the anniversary of the Battle of Trafalgar, demanding drastic reductions of the British Fleet and other armed forces. It would be interesting to know how many of these distinguished personages have taken the trouble to acquire any knowledge of the nature of sea power and the functions of a fleet. Certainly they had little knowledge of history, for persons undoubtedly well endowed with imagination, and the dramatic instinct, would have seized upon Trafalgar Day as the occasion on which to make their representations. Most of us will agree with their aspirations even if we disagree with their immediate aims. No one wants war, particularly war of a kind in which modern fleets and air services will prove the decisive factors. It is all very well for poets and publicists of a bellicose, rather than a pacifist, disposition to declaim about "Battle's" magnificently stern array," but it is a different matter to fight, out-ranged and out-gunned, in a rising storm, as did the losers in those grim tragedies of Coronel and the Falkland Islands, or again, to be stifled in a disabled

MAN GOES TO GOAL FOR FRIEND

JUST TO HELP HIS FAMILY!

AND TRIES TO DO IT AGAIN

How a man went to prison for a month in the place of another, "in order to help his family," was revealed at the Old Bailey.

William Thomas Staples, aged forty, a fruiterer, of Holloway road, and Alfred James Phelps, aged twenty-nine, a coster, were accused of conspiracy.

Mr. Gerald Dodson, prosecuting, said that in January, when a committal order of one month's imprisonment was made against Staples on warrants for arrears of rates, Phelps represented himself to be Staples and served the sentence in his stead.

Later, another committal order was made against Staples, and the same deception was kept up, but the authorities became suspicious.

A policeman said that Staples was faced with opposition in his business, and Phelps was anxious to help the family. He received nothing for going to prison.

Staples was sentenced to four months in the second division, and Phelps was bound over.

THREE YEARS FOR BLACKMAIL

LETTER FROM FIANCEE IN A LOST WALLET

Sentence of three years' penal servitude was passed at the Old Bailey on James Hardman, aged forty-three, a labourer, of Farmcombe, near Godalming, for uttering a letter demanding £40 with menaces from a man referred to as Mr. "A."

Mr. E. Gibbs Kimber, prosecuting, stated that while Mr. "A." and his wife were canoeing on the River Wey near Guildford, the boat capsized and they were thrown into the water.

Mr. "A." on his return to Guildford found that he had lost his wallet, which had contained three photographs and a letter.

The letter was from Mr. "A." wife, written to him before their marriage, and the photographs were also of the wife before marriage. They were married in August of last year.

Hardman wrote to Mr. "A." that he had found the wallet floating in the river and asking for £40 for the return of the wallet. Mr. "A." at once went to the police and Hardman was arrested.

Sir Ernest Wild, K.C., passing sentence, said that the case was an illustration of the wisdom of people who were blackmailed calling the police at once.

AN IDEAL SUNDAY

REPULSE BAY HOTEL ARRANGEMENT

The management of the Repulse Bay Hotel has inaugurated for the winter season a very delightful Sunday programme in the form of a special tiffin and afternoon tea dance. The first of these took place last Sunday and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd that attended.

A charming day's programme is offered. First, the car-drive, through scenery so lovely that no one can fail to be thrilled and charmed, no matter how many times they have seen it; then the hotel with its lovely views and its modern amenities.

After tiffin, either a dance, a walk round the Bay or a scramble up one of the mountain paths, and then, a drive home, when the sun is setting behind the islands, or when the moon is shining over the sea.

The management of the Repulse Bay Hotel is to be congratulated on a Sunday arrangement equally enjoyable for "bright young things," strenuous people, and those anxious for a quiet day.

teries of the Dreadnought battleships that fought at Jutland to decide the future history of the world were firing for a matter of minutes only. The Victory—last survivor of her age—must have been in fleet action longer, over half a century, than all the first-line battleships of the Great War.

A genuine love of peace is by no means incompatible with a knowledge of war, and a pride in the great fighters of old time. Pacificism run wild provokes intense irritation among normal people, but if the presentation of the disarmament petition had been preceded by an appreciation of Nelson, from some genuine expert on sea power, like Admiral Sir Horatio Hornblower, there would be less inclination to dismiss the incident as the work of well-intentioned persons, out of touch with the bitter facts of modern day hatreds and jealousies.

Corduroy Costumes.

Several sartorial establishments in the West End are featuring corduroy coats and costumes of various designs. A parade of these styles for early winter was given the garments worn being notable for the rather violent shades of red and purple which were to be found among them. These colours, together with the milder attractions of cream and blue—which is still fashionable—contrasted with the large brass buttons sewn over the surfaces of the creations. Certain ideas were effective in a virulent fashion, and may be worn extensively in the near future. It is to be hoped, however, that the labels used by one or two makers will be destroyed "breathlessly smart," "desperately decorative," and "besieging" are descriptions capable of condemning the best of raiment.

Unbreakable Shoe-Lace.

Although it may not affect the destinies of nations, an unbreakable shoe-lace, privately exhibited in London, should prove a blessing to mankind. This wonder among shoe-strings is said to resist any strain up to 14 stones, and its strength does not desert it for several months. The lace is perhaps, a little thicker than its more delicate brethren, but there are no other differences, and the samples at were displayed in three colours.

Giant Photographs.

The extent to which a photograph of normal size can be enlarged nowadays is almost unlimited. Several specimens of the art were shown at the Professional Photographers' Exhibition in London. Each portrait was at least seven feet square, and in none of them could there be detected the slightest tendency towards "fuzziness" or any lack of the clarity of outline which belonged to the small originals. Giant examples of the art of enlargement, though these were, they could have been made even larger without loss of detail if it had been necessary or desirable for the purposes of the display to increase their dimensions.

"Sandringham Time."

In view of the mild controversy aroused as to the reason why the clocks at Sandringham the King's country residence are kept half an hour fast. The following explanation given by the King himself may be of interest.

His Majesty said:—"My father used to have big shooting parties here, and couldn't get his guests up in the morning, so he put the clocks on half an hour!"

The rule applies to the whole village and the clocks are not changed to summer time. An event was given out in church as taking place "Three o'clock, Sandringham time." A popular idea was that King Edward started the innovation, because Queen Alexandra, had the very human failing of generally being about half an hour late!

Samuel Butler on Ireland.

Among the new extracts from the notebooks of Samuel Butler in the current number of the "English Review" is a reflection on Ireland which falls (shall we say?) rather pat:

SQUARING THE CIRCLE.

In old times people used to try and square the circle: now they try and devise schemes for satisfying the Irish nation.

The Emotional Dishcloth.

In reviewing Mr. Francis Stuart's new novel, "The Coloured Dome," British critics, of the high-brow order, laded out lavish praise. Remembering what they said of this writer's earlier books, many people wondered what they would declaim about "Coloured Dome." One at least of them confessed himself stumped. "I am really at a loss for words," he wrote. The emotional dishcloth had at last been wrung dry. "The Coloured Dome" is about the Irish Republican Army. It is modelled on the more mysterious Russian masters. One chapter in the Elinor Glynn manner condescends to be intelligible to the ordinary reader.

A Pedestrian-Catcher.

London.—The alarming number of fatal motor accidents in which pedestrians are involved makes especially interesting some experiments made with a device which is designed to pick up the unwary pedestrian.

A 30cwt lorry, fitted with the device, which is known as the "Autosave," three times charged an 8ft dummy and after that ordeal the overalls in which the dummy was clothed were not even torn.

Mr. A. J. Grafton is the inventor, and anticipates that it will reduce considerably the number of fatal road accidents.

The "Autosave," which is "L" shaped, is made of steel bars covered with sponge rubber. It is fitted to the front axle, and, by means of a scissors device and a pin in the steering gear, moves with the wheels.

As soon as any weight strikes the "Autosave" it falls back towards the radiator, providing a kind of platform which quite easily supported a 1st man at the trial. The back, being made of flat steel bars, affords hand-holds. There is also a steel frame round the radiator which offers additional hand-holds in an accident.

Aberdeen!

"Visitors from Aberdeen, lighting cigarettes."

Not Worth It!

Husband at Willesden Police Court: My wife promised me more pocket money if I would live with her mother. I was not attracted.

He Might?

"I suppose you thought these two men were engaged in a joint adventure?" a witness was asked at Tottenham at a London Police Court. And he lucidly replied, "I thought the other man at some time or other might have done something or other somewhere."

Practical Help.

The Prince of Wales has replaced one Scilly Island farmer, who has retired, by two unemployed Welsh miners and has sent an expert from his Duchy of Cornwall to teach them the intricacies of agriculture. Meanwhile, since they have been taken off the dole, he is paying them from his own pocket until their first crops are harvested.

From the Files.

Looking Back 25 Years.

During the last few months the Chief Justice, Sir Francis Pigott, has been on holiday in Japan, and during his absence it occurred to his No. 1 boy, who is in charge of the "Eyre," that he might considerably increase his earnings by turning the ground of the judicial residence into an open air restaurant. On Tuesday local Chinese celebrated the Chung-Yung Festival, quite a number of them ascending the highest points of the Peak as is customary on this occasion. En route their attention was attracted by notices which has been posted round the fence of Sir Francis Pigott's residence to the effect that there was a shop inside at which could be obtained coffee, milk, tea and meals at all hours, also cool water, etc. Seven large tables were laid on the lawn in front of the house, at which visitors were seated, while the cooking was carried out in the kitchen. The No. 1 boy had provided a special staff of waiters to attend to customers, and it would appear that these were busily engaged when Police Sergeant Gordon called, and was very considerably surprised to witness the garden party on his Lordship's lawn. Knowing that the family were absent from the Colony, it occurred to him that they could not be entertaining Chinese, so he proceeded to make inquiries which resulted on the arrest of the No. 1 boy, who was charged before Mr. E. A. Hazeland at the Police Court yesterday with keeping a common eating house at the Chief Justice's residence. Chan admitted the charge and his Worship adjourned the case until the return of His Honour to the Colony.—Hong Kong Daily Press, October 21, 1907.

GRAVE UNEMPLOYED
DISTURBANCESLONDON POLICE SHOW
GREAT RESTRAINT

[REUTER AND BRITISH WIRELESS.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.
Sir John Gilmour, the newly-appointed Home Secretary, replying to Mr. George Lansbury, informed the House of Commons to-night that the grave unemployed disturbances in London last night were organised by the National Unemployed Workers movement, a well-known Communist organisation.

The demonstrators numbered over ten thousand. The police succeeded in diverting the processions before they reached the County Hall, Westminster, but one of the unemployed contingents tried to force a police cordon.

From this stage, there was considerable disorder. The situation was completely out of hand temporarily. Stones, bricks, iron railings were thrown at the police who were compelled to make numerous arrests.

Sir John Gilmour added that the disorder was clearly premeditated as many of the men arrested were found to have stones and pieces of iron in their pockets.

Over forty of the men arrested were to be charged with wilful damage and larceny (arising from the looting) and with assaulting the police.

Several demonstrators and many police were injured, the numbers being uncertain for the moment.

He was, however, convinced that the police behaved with admirable restraint, despite great provocation.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, after Sir John Gilmour's statement, agreed to Mr. Lansbury's request for a debate on the adjournment of the House.

Mr. Lansbury's Plan.
When the discussion was resumed later in the evening, Mr. George Lansbury made an impassioned speech dealing with the circumstances of the unemployed in Britain.

"Thousands of unemployed," he said, "are converging upon London. Welcome them with the promise that the Means Test will be revoked and that every man will be given a chance of a decent existence."

Mr. Lansbury urged that all the recent unemployed disturbances in the British Isles were due to dissatisfaction with provisions for livelihood. The Means Test was the source of great grievance.

Replying, Sir John Gilmour attributed the riots mainly to Communist organisers, who themselves, he said, were not bearing the brunt of the economic battle.

He then showed how the technique of street fighting, as advocated by the Communist International, was being considerably developed in England.

Trip wires were being fastened across the streets about a foot from the ground.

Lamps in the vicinity were extinguished.

The covers of man-holes were removed.

The police handled the crowds, he declared, without much difficulty. They tried to avoid clashes. There were only thirteen civilians known to have been injured last night, but thirty-seven policemen received injuries.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald announced that the Government would shortly make a statement regarding the Means Test and the matter was dropped.

BRITISH PUBLIC
OPINIONON WORLD ARMAMENT REDUCTION

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Oct. 19.
THE NATIONAL memorial on the disarmament situation which has been sent to the Prime Minister on behalf of over 200 signatories representative of many spheres of national life, assures him of widespread support by informed public opinion for armament reduction.

To-morrow, two influential deputations on the same subject are being met by the Premier. One deputation, by the Archbishop of Canterbury and including leaders of the Nonconformist churches will be received by Mr. MacDonald and Sir John Simon in the Locarno room at the Foreign Office. Later, a second deputation of well-known people representative of the non-party life of the nation will also put their views before the Premier.

The desire of the deputations is to demonstrate that the Government will have the full force of public opinion behind them in all measures designed to overcome the present international deadlock and to achieve a drastic measure of disarmament.

DE VALERA EXPLAINS TO
THE DAILBRITAIN NOT PREPARED TO CONCEDE SIMPLE JUSTICE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.
"I HAVE come to the conclusion that the present British Government, pressed forward by certain anti-Irish feeling in Britain and supported by the attitude of a minority in the Free State, is not prepared to examine the position on its merits or yield to claims of simple justice."

Thus Mr. Eamon de Valera, President of the Free State Council, in the course of a statement on the abortive London negotiations before a crowded Dail this evening.

"It is possible," he said, "that had we gone to them in the role of beggars, hats in hand, asking for consideration and charity, there might have been a disposition to make minor modifications and some mitigation of our claims, but simple justice they were not prepared to concede."

He said that as the negotiations were entered upon to see if it was possible to arrive at a comprehensive settlement, the members of the Irish Free State delegation submitted claims that should be submitted when ever there was a question of what might be called an ultimate financial settlement between the two countries.

Mr. de Valera stated that the British Government, however, took their stand on the inviolability of the "secret" documents of 1923 and 1926 and refused to budge from that position.

"Britain plays Part of Shylock," he said, "while the British Government was playing the part of Shylock to the Irish Free State and that of Lady Bountiful to the Continent, they were petitioning the United States for release from debts morally and legally due."

The whole world recognised that if there was to be a restoration of the economic life of the world, the huge inter-governmental debts must cease.

"We are not prepared to bind our people to a burden imposed upon them in the past."

"We believe that the British demands are neither legally nor morally due and we are prepared to defend our rights."

Tariff War to Continue.
The tariff war, which is bound to go on will impose considerable hardships upon residents of the Irish Free State, he admitted, but he believed that as a result in the long run they would be relieved from the position of dangerous dependence upon the British market.

Replying to questions, Mr. de Valera said that the claims of the Irish Free State delegates were advanced just as seriously as those of Britain that the Free State should bear a portion of her debt.

He said he did not raise the question of a United Irish Republic as a relevant issue in the negotiations. The Free State Government assumed office as one of the States of the British Commonwealth and was bound by pledges precluding secession without an express mandate from the electorate, he declared.

The debate then closed.

used by the Great Powers to make clear in their minds as to how the desired end is to be achieved. Germany's claim to equality of status, it says, is, to all intents, conceded already.

"Of the two conservative alternatives before them—their own progressive disarmament to a reasonable limit and the progressive rearming of Germany to a point of renewed competition with her neighbours—they have most definitely pledged themselves to the former. Their choice is dictated not only by the profound revulsion of the world from any prospect of another war not only by the moral obligations of the Peace Treaty, but by plain common sense and economic necessity."

MAIL BAG
ROBBERYMOTOR BANDITS' COUP
AT EUSTON

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.
MOTOR bandits accomplished one of the most daring mailbag robberies of recent years at Euston Station last night.

The outrage was committed in full view of the station throng. The bandits, who were awaiting the mail's arrival, felled the postman and seized the registered mail bag intended for dispatch by the Irish mail train.

One bandit tripped up the postman by dropping a suitcase at his feet. Another then threw a black cloth over his head, while a third knocked him senseless with a blunt weapon.

All escaped in a waiting motor-van within a few minutes.

Flying Squad cars patrolling the area were given a wireless description of the van, for which they are scouring the district.

DEMEKER TRIAL
DRAMAWOMAN'S STORY OF BEDSIDE SCENE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

JOHANNESBURG, Oct. 19.
DRAMATIC evidence was given to-day during the trial of Mrs. Daisy Louise Demeker for murder.

It is alleged by the prosecution that she poisoned her two previous husbands, William Alfred Cowie and Robert Sprout, with strychnine, and her twenty-year-old son, Rhodes Cecil Sprout with arsenic.

Mrs. Stricker, giving evidence, said that while Mrs. Demeker's second husband was dying, the accused drew up a will in her own favour and insisted upon her husband signing it while she supported him in bed.

Charges of obtaining money, jewellery and other personal effects from two female deportees from Singapore, under the pretext that he was a boarding-house runner, were brought against a Chinese who appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court yesterday. The defendant admitted both counts.

In explaining the case, Detective D. Fitches said that the complainants were deportees who arrived in Hong Kong by the s.s. Santhia but before they were taken to the Central Police Station the defendant had introduced himself to the two complainants as a runner of the Tung Nam Boarding House. He produced a pamphlet bearing the name of the Tung Nam Boarding House of Singapore.

He suggested that the two complainants hand over their valuables and other property to him for safe custody, and he would return them when they were leaving the Colony. From a woman he received $29 in Singapore money, and five big boxes of luggage containing her personal effects to the total value of $300.

From the second complainant, who was only a girl, the accused got two gold bangles and one gold ring.

On Wednesday, as Sergeant Went was going round the cells he found the girl crying and the defendant standing at the door of the cell. Enquiries were made and the girl produced a ring and two bangles which were imitation gold. She informed the officer of what had occurred and remarked that the defendant had brought back the jewellery and had informed her it was only imitation gold.

The defendant was placed under arrest and later the entire property which had been taken from the two complainants was found in his house. He had changed the $29 into Canton and Hong Kong currency.

Owing to the epidemic of similar larcenies, the police were asking his Worship to take a serious view of the case.

His Worship sentenced the defendant to six months' hard labour on the two charges.

HONG KONG AIR
MAIL?LINK WITH ROUTE TO AUSTRALIA

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.
HONG KONG may have its direct air link with the Imperial Airways Croydon-India service in the course of next year.

The Hong Kong service will be an offshoot of an England-Australia service.

Colonel Sheldermine, the Director of Civil Aviation, made these revelations to-day, in the course of a statement regarding the proposed air route between London and Australia via Karachi and Singapore.

He stated that it was hoped to inaugurate the service in 1933, and added that negotiations were already in hand for extending the Indian route from Karachi to Singapore.

It was hoped that the section from Singapore to Australia would be undertaken by Australian interests. He then mentioned the possibility of linking Hong Kong and Rangoon via French Indo-China with the main route from England to Australia.

CLERK DISCHARGED

BOUGHT STOLEN MOTOR CYCLE PART

Tai Wing Fai alias William Tai, appeared before Mr. A. W. G. H. (Granham) at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday on a charge of being in unlawful possession of a motor-cycle fitting belonging to Mr. G. A. Bond.

Traffic Sergeant Clarke said the complainant left his motor-cycle at the Kowloon motor-car park in Salisbury Road on October 6 and when he returned for it later he found that the push-button fixing to his horn was missing from his cycle. He accordingly made a report to the police.

On October 12, he had occasion to go to a car-park again and there he saw a push-button resembling the one he had lost affixed to another cycle. There were, he said, only two buttons of this description in Hong Kong and he immediately suspected that this was the missing one. He saw Sergeant Clark about the matter and the latter took the cycle to the Water Police Station where it was later claimed by the defendant.

Defendant's story was that he bought it from a youth who resembled a motor-mechanic. The horn of his cycle, which he bought second-hand not long ago, was not working, and he therefore seized the opportunity of buying the push-button, paying $1 for it.

Addressing Sergeant Clarke, his Worship said he did not think defendant was the kind of person who would take off the article from the cycle himself. In discharging defendant, his Worship warned him not to go about buying such things from people he did not know.

FAULTY AMERICAN
FINANCINGFIERCE ATTACK ON HOOVER
ADMINISTRATION

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.
A FURTHER colossal deficit on the Budget amounting to at least $81,000,000, was forecasted by Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, in a speech here to-day.

Mr. Roosevelt launched a fierce attack on the financial policy of the Hoover Administration and the "wild estimates" of the United States Treasury.

He declared that if the present rate of Governmental receipts and expenditure were maintained to the end of the present fiscal year, the deficit must be upwards of $1,000,000,000.

Governmental borrowing had, he declared, been necessitated by the heavy deficits on the budget in the last two years and this borrowing had been absorbing credit which rightly belonged to industry.

"Our banks," he added, "are financing these stupendous deficits, which is a burden absorbing their resources."

Mr. Roosevelt attributed the industrial slump in the United States to the U.S. Republican Government's mistaken tariff policies.

ANTS WITH HUMAN BRAINS

THEY—MILK "COWS" KEEP "DOGS" GO TO WAR MUSHROOMS

A traveller just back from Yucatan, says he is prepared to back the brains of the termites, or white ants, against those of any living thing save man.

"These white ants," he said, had a knowledge of central heating systems, hundreds, thousands, of years before man got the idea.

He told me how they gathered leaves, decaying matter and wood-dust which they packed together in the centre of the ant hill. This mass, gradually fermenting, gave forth a continuous heat transmitted to the other quarters of the citadel by means of tiny galleries and corridors.

It would be no use the London Zoo trying to exhibit termites in a glass case, like ordinary ants and bees. Termites do not like being watched, and soon glare glass covers with some kind of formic paste that obliterates their doings from sight.

The Sentries.
Any British schoolboy naturalist will be able, however, to show you a nest of ants, and if you are patient you may see their sentries at work, watch them milking their "cows"—the aphids or green fly; see them bury their dead; watch their military forces engage in forays.

But the termite, I agree with my friend from Yucatan, is a wonder. The queen lays thousands of eggs a day, and can keep it up for months.

In the central heating chamber the termites often grow mushrooms, a tiny species of fungi. Their soldiers at time go into action armed with syringes.

There are ants that have their family pets, too; small mites that go about with them and are patted on the head like favourite dogs.

RUSSIAN BEGGAR

EXPULSION ORDER MADE BY MAGISTRATE

A young Russian, V. M. Krasnikoff, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court yesterday on a charge of arriving in the Colony without a valid passport.

Detective Sergeant Mottram said the defendant was arrested by a Russian sergeant in the vicinity of the Canton wharf. The officer had recognised him as a man whom he had known as a loiterer and beggar in Tientsin. The accused was asked if he had any passport, and he replied in the negative.

The accused had told the police that he had never done any work but had always begged for a living. He had $4.60 in Hong Kong money in his possession when arrested and this, he said, he had obtained by begging in the streets of Hong Kong.

His Worship fined him $50 or one month's hard labour in default and made an expulsion order.

MANUFACTURE OF
ARMSSPLIT BETWEEN POWERS
AT GENEVA

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Oct. 19.
A SPLIT has occurred between the leading Powers who are deliberating on the question of the regulation of the manufacture of arms and ammunition and the trade in arms.

It was revealed to-day that the special committee appointed to report on this question is divided into two sharply opposing groups. The committee has been obliged to adjourn the discussion sine die as a result of the cleavage.

France, Spain, Denmark and Poland strongly advocated the suppression of the private manufacture of arms.

Britain, Italy, Japan and the United States upheld the rights of the private manufacturer.

The sub-committee agreed upon a questionnaire to be submitted to the interested governments though the Japanese representative said frankly that his government was not likely to reply.

MILLIONAIRES OUT OF WORK

MARTIN INSULL LIVING IN BOARDING HOUSE

Orillia (Ontario), Sept. 15.—Like his famous brother Samuel, Mr. Martin J. Insull, ex-president of Middlewest Utilities, admitted to-day that he was "just another recruit for the army of the unemployed."

Auditors in the Chicago Federal Court yesterday revealed the true deficit resulting from the crash of the Insull interests. Liabilities are stated to be $21,000,703, and assets $26,309,509.

Mr. Martin Insull has just come to a 24-a-week boarding house here with his wife, having left their palatial home on Chicago's "Gold Coast."

Only recently he was rated as one of the wealthiest of America's business men. Now he possesses just enough to provide a single room and meals for himself and Mrs. Insull.

He has not been as fortunate as his brother, who has been able at least to save a pension from the debacle. Mr. Samuel Insull is now living in decent comfort in Paris.

But for Martin Insull there are only long, empty days ahead. "I isn't all I've been used to," he told me, "but I am getting three square meals a day, and they're pretty good meals, too."

HUSBAND OF HEIRESS A VAN DRIVER

HIS ONLY MEANS OF LIVELIHOOD

Alfred Cecil Durban, the Folkestone newsboy who married an American heiress, appeared at Hythe Police Court, and stated that his only means of livelihood was driving a motor-van to distribute newspapers.

He was fined £10 for recklessly driving the van, and the magistrates warned him that if he came before them again on a similar summons he would be sent to prison. He was allowed twenty-eight days to pay the fine.

Durban's address was given as Enbrook Manor, Cheriton, the palatial house at which his wife was living with her mother when the two first met.

Marriage Romance.
Durban delivered papers at the door, and they were married while the bride's mother was away in Switzerland.

His bride was Miss Vivienne Harrington, who belongs to one of the wealthiest families in America. Since their marriage in March 1930 they have been in Canada and America, and a baby was born at Logansport, Indiana.

Durban was reported to be earning £24 a week and commission as an electrical fittings salesman at Toronto.

HONG KONG INTERPORT BOWLERS ENTERTAINED

VICTORIOUS TEAM HONOURED: MR. BRAWN ON SHANGHAI TRIP

PLEASANT FUNCTION AT LANE. CRAWFORD'S RESTAURANT

Lane, Crawford's Restaurant was the scene of a very pleasant function last night, on the occasion of the complimentary dinner tendered to the members of the victorious Interport Lawn Bowls team by the Hong Kong Lawn Bowls Association.

The occasion was a festive one, and throughout the evening songs and musical items were rendered.

Mr. A. L. Shields, Vice President of the Lawn Bowls association presided, Mr. A. O. Brawn, who is president of the association, and who accompanied the team as manager to Shanghai being one of the guests of honour.

PRESIDENT'S HUMOROUS SPEECH

After the toast of "The King" had been honoured, Mr. Shields proposed the toast of "Our Victorious Interport Lawn Bowls Team" and said:—

I esteem it a great honour to be in the Chair to-night and to express on your behalf congratulations to our President and the Hong Kong Interport Lawn Bowls team on their victory in Shanghai.

Lawn bowlers, I venture to state, are mostly modest men who play the game for the sake, and if any of our guests to-night are overcome by modesty, it cannot be helped; we must give honour where honour is due. Since the first Hong Kong-Shanghai Interport match in 1915, visiting teams have only been successful on four occasions—twice in Hong Kong and twice in Shanghai, hence our great jubilation when the results came through.

You will all appreciate the handicaps of a visiting team. The selection is influenced by the players who can get away, the greens are all strange, the players are drawn from various clubs and may have difficulty in getting together as a team, and last but not least, there is, especially in the case of the northern port, the hospitality for which Shanghai is famous—I nearly said notorious.

Tribute to Omar.

In spite of these disadvantages, our lads brought back the Cup and a "sui secht" they had. You have all doubtless read the newspaper accounts of the games and how the doughty Omar snatched the victory on the last head of the second game. (Applause).

Those of you who suffer from stage fright will appreciate the steadiness of a skip who, with his second wheel in the last head when the opponents are lying, draws the winning shot to win the rubber. This was Omar's third visit to Shanghai. You may say third time is lucky but I say dogged determination did it.

Johnny Brown has been to Shanghai twice and each time the team has won. Hampton and Buchanan both played in the interport match with Shanghai last year in Hong Kong. Bradbury, Omar's stalwart, henchman on the Craigengower team, who is a canny exponent of the gentle art of wood trundling, fully justified his selection and was, I believe, the darling of the gallery and much photographed by the movie camera men who recorded the different games. I hear we will be able to see these photos reproduced shortly in Hong Kong.

Nichol made his debut in big games and has, I am told, that great asset, the right temperament, and is worthy of the serious attention of future selection committees.

Mr. Brawn, Counsellor and Friend.

The team were fortunate in having as their manager our worthy President, Mr. Brawn, who acted as guide, counsellor and friend. No mean exponent of the game himself, he gave his undivided attention to the selection and placing of his men. He watched his flock by day and if you will excuse the mixing of the metaphor, tucked them into beds at night at a reasonable hour. (Laughter).

MR. BRAWN'S SPEECH

In responding to the toast on behalf of the bowlers Mr. Brawn said:—

When I was responding to the toast of the Hong Kong bowlers in Shanghai Club two or three weeks ago, I told Shanghai that I had a confession to make and had no earthly right to be at their festive board. I said I was a gate-crasher. I had bluffed Hong Kong into sending me up as team manager. Now, from the nice things so many have said about me, I am beginning to think it was not a bluff and that Hong Kong knows me better than I know myself.

I have always wanted to go to Shanghai in some Interport capacity. Thirty years ago I hoped it would be the cricket team, but I was never good enough. Anyhow, I got to Shanghai. My main excuse for going there was that the Shanghai president came to Hong Kong last year and took away the Ashes. So it seemed fitting that the Hong Kong President should go there and bring them back. I took with me a hoodoo and a mascot. The hoodoo was Omar—he had been twice before and lost—but you know the story of Robert Bruce and the spider. The mascot was Johnny Brown—he had been up before and won. I also took with me one dozen of Robert McWhirter's books as propaganda, but some might call it intimidation.

"Windy Corner."

There is in Shanghai a place called Windy Corner, well known to their Volunteers during their little war. I did not discover it but I found two other Windy Corners—one in Hong Kong Park when we were 15-11 and two heads to go and then let Shanghai get a five on the 20th head, and the other was in Wayside Park and led 18-9 with seven heads to go and then let Shanghai lead by 20-18 on the 19th head.

However, my men rose to the occasion and pulled the games round. They must have imbibed some of my temperament. I remember at my wedding many years ago my "best man" said I was the most imperturbable man he had ever met. He said he could imagine a frantic mother in a year or two's time running to me with the news that the first born had swallowed sixpence and me answering, "Never mind, we shall know where to find it." (Laughter).

Once again I would like to thank my men for the way they rallied round me. Omar—the star, Bradbury—the sheet anchor, Johnny Brown—the henchman, Nichol—one of the old contemplatives, Hampton—the baby of the team whose hair is just beginning to grow, and Buchanan—the man who has learned something about the properties of glass and lignum vitae. (More Laughter). I would also thank all in Shanghai for the wonderful hospitality, not forgetting the Pressmen who alluded to my smile. It was a revelation to me. I thought I always had a dour expression and did not know there was some elasticity in my facial muscles.

A Wonderful Holiday.

Well, gentlemen, it was a wonderful holiday. It was grand to meet again old opponents like Malcolm, Harvey, Brierley, Richards, Dorrance, Johnstone, Glover, Storme, Medina, Main and Major Leitao, an old school boy, and to make the acquaintance of other bowlers whose names are household words in Shanghai. I mean Dunlop, Campbell, Turnbull, Harrison, Jensen, McGregor, Sequera and Porter, A.D. Bell and C. McBain, and especially Ephgrave the Secretary, and Munro and Col. Trueman and Torry Wilson. It was an ideal holiday—plenty of open air, plenty of night life, plenty of good fellowship and cheer, plenty of tipple, occasional glimpses of shapely women, dog races, and trips to Soekingyao and Hungkiao.

Now, gentlemen, I began by saying I had a confession to make to Shanghai. Now I have a confession to make to you. I have infringed my own copyright. The speech I have just made so far as my memory serves me is practically the same as the one I delivered at the Shanghai Interport dinner. After the dinner we adjourned to the long bar and then to the Casino, and I did not return to my quarters until about 5 a.m. (Thanks to Bradbury who carefully put me into a taxi when I thought I was putting him in one). When I got to my room I was so wakeful that I made notes of my speech on the back of the menu-card—Here they are. (Applause).

Mr. V. Omar, skipper of the victorious team proposed the health of "The Hosts" to which Mr. I. Meyer suitably responded. Mr. Bradbury, on behalf of the gathering, proposed the toast of "The Arrivals" to which Mr. V. C. Labrum, who materially assisted toward the evening's successful entertainment, responded.

CRICKET NOTES

ARRANGEMENT OF LEAGUE MATCHES

TO-MORROW'S BIG TUSSLE

I have always maintained that there is a great art in arranging the League fixtures of any team so that it may give of its best. To my mind the considerations that apply to the "production of an amateur theatrical performance, that is, it is fatal to have too long intervals between your League Matches or your shows as your players tend to slack off and lose interest, instead of remaining keyed up all the time. The University have gone a good way towards this, as out of their eleven Saturday afternoon matches, on their card between the 7th January and the 25th March, 1933, seven are League games. This however has not come about from any theory such as mine, but from the fact that they have their examinations at the end of November and beginning of December, and wisely have fixed no matches from the 1st November to the 17th December. In this month they have a few friendlies.

The Navy have managed to get in four League matches in between the 19th November and the 17th of December but their programme does not end until the 18th March. The Club range from November to February—three months and a week; Craigengower, from the 12th November to the 25th March, and the Civil Service from the 5th November to the 11th March. I am still without cards from K.C.C. and the Army so I can't say about them. The I.R.C. start on the 22nd October and finish on the 4th March.

Postponements.

The comparatively large number of friendlies leads sometimes to a good deal of postponement, and there was rather too much of this last year. The absence of one or two players is not generally considered to be a legitimate ground for postponement. Of course, there are cases where it is necessary. But anything which tends to drag out the League towards dates in April should be firmly discouraged.

Last Saturday's Games.

One of the most interesting games of last Saturday was that between the Indians and Craigengower at the Indian's ground at Sookunpoo. The result of this game combined with that of the Navy match makes me wonder if the I.R.C. batting is as sound as it was. Twice Arthur Rumjahn and Bakar have saved them from a crash. Last Saturday they lost their wickets 1/0; 2/2; 3/3 4/5; and 5/17. A. H. Madar does not yet seem to be in form. But full credit must be given to Robert Lee and the new comer, Hubbard, who bowled very well. The latter has a high easy action, and both swings away and breaks a little from leg, with fair length. The I.R.C. bowled very well also as H. P. Lim was in fifty minutes for two runs. F. K. Lee batted well. The fielding of Craigengower, as, if possible, better than that of the Indians and while I am not suggesting that they can and will beat I.R.C., I feel that of the two Craigengower have made more progress this year, so far as appears at present.

Left Handers.

I am much obliged to a correspondent who has pointed out to me that both D. Pitts and F. Oliver played for Craigengower about three seasons ago, and both bowled left-handed. I of course reflect them now they are mentioned, but I doubt if they were ever in the first flight. Oliver once got the C.S.C.C. out for under twenty, and Fritz for some period was a thoroughly useful stock bowler. By the way, while speaking of Craigengower, I must commiserate with them and with C. W. Lam who split his hand in trying a hot return. I hear it will probably keep him out of the field for a month.

The Kowloon Varsity Match.

The University were badly beaten at Pokfulam on Saturday last, but at all events the match served to show that A. M. Rodrigues, who attracted a good deal of notice last season, has developed further. He made an excellent forty-eight and if he goes on in this steady improvement he will be well worth consideration for the Interport Trials in October 1933. The rest of the side were disappointing, and evidently the loss of Donald Anderson is much felt. I understand, however, that he will be fit enough after Christmas, and meanwhile his

"ARSENE LUPIN"

TWO BARRYMORES IN QUEEN'S FEATURE

John and Lionel Barrymore make their first screen appearance together in "Arsene Lupin," colourful French mystery drama, which will be shown at the Queen's Theatre from Sunday.

The picture, based on the Paris stage success by Maurice Le Blanc and Francis de Croisset, depicts the entertaining career of a de-bonair master thief who is trailed by an implacable detective through the gay salons of Paris with interesting details of the Apache underworld thrown in for good measure. John Barrymore plays the thief and his brother Lionel the detective. Karen Morley, John Miljan and Tully Marshall also have important roles.

Highlights of the production are the clever theft of jewels from a magnificent chateau, the outwitting of detectives at a unique birthday party which is said to have entailed the use of the largest cake ever contrived for screen purposes, a dramatic scene in which Miss Morley is compromised, but ventures to lose her honour in order to protect the attractive thief, the audacious theft of the famous painting "Mona Lisa" from the Louvre, executed by John Barrymore with the help of an ingenious disguise, the detective's choice of deciding between the safety of his daughter or the capture of the thief, and the escape of the latter by way of the Seine River.

THE FRIGHTENED LADY

POWERFUL MELODRAMA
AT THE QUEEN'S

"The Frightened Lady," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, is a powerful drama, and shows what a fine dramatist Edgar Wallace could be at his best. The strange story grips and baffles. From the opening scenes the eerie atmosphere of Marks Priory, the ancient seat of the Lebanon family, grows upon one, and you do not know who to suspect next, the terrible danger, her sinister footmen, or even the poor frightened lady who walks in her sleep. A queer place, and queer happenings, made all the sadder when a promising villain of a doctor is himself killed.

The film is notable for the remarkable acting. Here again the West End of London shows how it can "put it across" Hollywood. Cathleen Nesbitt, who many of us remember in beautiful-heroine roles, appears as a fierce and over-weening woman, a veritable Lady Macbeth. Norman McKinnel as the dignified detective and Gordon Harker, as his undignified colleague, make a wonderful pair. McKinnel's death was a great loss to British films. Evelyn Williams is a promising youngster, and in a scene of emotion and terror he gave a display that shows in him Elstree has a real discovery. Belle Crystal does a small part well, and, as always in British films, the minor roles were excellent.

"The Frightened Lady" is preceded by a sound magazine, with some delightful music and a comic turn by Lily Morris, whose "Old Apple Tree" brought down the house.

"JUNE MOON"

AT THE ORIENTAL

A trade notice states:—The philosopher who made the remark about big oaks growing from little acorns was right. From a little story, a big stage hit and a feature motion picture has grown. The combined results have meant a fortune to the writer of that story. The author was Ring Lardner, who not so long ago finished a short story titled, "Some Like 'Em Cold'" and sold it to a magazine.

A short time afterwards, he sought new fields to conquer in the business of writing plays and wrote his play, "Elmer," the Great. (Continued at foot of next column.)

"MY SIN"

"TALLULAH" AT THE KING'S

A trade notice states:—Tallulah Bankhead, popular stage and screen star, has scored another screen "hit" in the thrilling social drama "My Sin." This picture, with Miss Bankhead and Fredric March as co-stars, is the feature at the King's Theatre to-day.

Miss Bankhead has a charming personality. She is light-blond, petite, vivacious, witty and alluring. She is the positive type. Her acting shows it. Being sure of her self, she has positive opinions and is not afraid to express them, but she speaks with a winning grace and never censoriously.

In the story of "My Sin" a marriage is proposed. The burning question is presented, "Should a woman with a discreditable past reveal her secret to her prospective husband before marriage or keep it, hoping that it will never be revealed?" In discussing this question among friends at the time the picture was being filmed, Tallulah gave her opinion, and also made some surprising observations on marriage.

"Yes," said Tallulah, "The truth should be told, however discreditable. Absolute truth and candor between both parties is the only basis on which to form a happy marriage. I don't mean that a woman should reveal her inmost thoughts to fiance or husband. In fact men like to do a little psychological exploring into the minds of the women they love. They are just looking for reactions—not answers."

"I would prefer," said Miss Bankhead, "to marry a man outside the dramatic profession, one competent to carry the family honours. When I do marry I will quit the stage. I consider marriage a big job and it will take all my time and talent to make a success of it."

"AREN'T WE ALL?"

BRITISH PICTURE FOR KING'S

A trade notice states:—"Great Posters," Edham, once the home of Queen Elizabeth, and steeped in memories of Shakespeare's day, was the romantic house chosen by Harry Lachman as a location for some of the scenes in "Aren't We All?" which he made for Paramount British Productions, Ltd.

This famous old house, dating from 1650, and now a twentieth century hotel, is ideal for country location work. It is one of the old moated houses of England. Contemporary writings show that King Henry VIII sent the Princess Elizabeth, as she was then, to Great Posters. Later Queen Elizabeth used Great Posters as a hunting lodge.

Many distinguished people have visited Great Posters recently, including H.M. the Queen, the King of Spain, the King of the Belgians, Princess Ingrid of Sweden, Princess Helena Victoria, Princess Marie Louise, the Maharaja of Alwar and the Aga Khan. The Asot. Ball was held at Great Posters last June, at which the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family were present.

Some very beautiful scenes of the house and grounds will be included in the film "Aren't We All?" which will come to the King's Theatre on Sunday next. Owen Nares and Harold Huth, two members of the great all-star cast of the picture, will be seen in the magnificent gardens of Great Posters.

Which, after a stage run, eventually found its way to the screen as "Fast Company" with Jack Oakie in the leading role. With George S. Kaufman, he worked the story into a play "June Moon." It ran for a season on Broadway won honours in Burns Mantle's "Ten Best" and started touring America.

Paramount purchased screen rights to the picture and it is now showing at the Oriental Theatre with Jack Oakie in the role of the youth who tries to crash his way into the lyric writing profession in New York.

TALKING TO QUEEN VICTORIA

GENERAL SAYS THERE ARE NO TITLES "THERE"

An extraordinary reference to Queen Victoria and Field-Marshal Lord Roberts was made by Major-General Pomeroy Holland-Fryer, who spoke at the spiritualist service in the Fortune Theatre.

"There is great humbleness among those who have passed over," said Sir Pomeroy. "I have myself spoken to Roberts—Lord Roberts as he was known here. He does not like to be known as Lord Roberts there. On the other side there are none of the distinctions for which men strive on this side."

"Friends of mine have spoken to Queen Victoria, who graciously prefers to be known humbly as Victoria, and is so addressed by everybody there."

GOSSIP & FACT.

Vilma Banky Returns.

Vilma Banky, who has been absent from the screen for about a year, will have the leading feminine role in "The Rebel," which will be filmed in the Tyrolean Alps. Luis Trenker will be the star of the picture, as well as one of its directors, and Victor Vancori will also have a part.

Red Dust.

"Red Dust" is to be one of M.G.-M.'s more lavishly dressed films of the season. Starring Jean Harlow and Clark Gable, rubber plantation has been created on the back lot, with jungles and a river on which is a genuine steamer. Hollywood has always lacked a river, although all other natural elements are claimed for the place, and so M.G.-M. has now built a stream that can serve as the Mississippi or the Ganges or whatever is needed.

Warner Brothers.

Warner Brothers continued to reach into the past for stories. Having found that they consider a particularly strong vehicle in "Silver Dollar," a tale of the gold days of Denver, for Edward G. Robinson, they have now purchased "Common Ground," a yarn of San Francisco immediately preceding and following the earthquake of 1906. Ruth Chatterton will be starred, but her husband and leading man, George Brent, will be featured in some other film. The story is an original by Gerald Beaumont.

Stage Accents.

Reginald Tate, who gives such a cleverly etched performance as the wily, impetuous, Rosenberg, in "Evening," has to mingle words of four different languages together with his English, and all are correctly pronounced.
